The APPEAL returns thanks to Senator John P. Jones for a copy of his great speech, delivered in the United States Senate last October. It contains 463 pages, and the Senator occupied eight days in its delivery.

Doris.

The principal interest of the play centers about the young girl "Doris," who has been divorced from the husband of an early and unhappy marriage, and who afterwards loves and is loved by the young Squire Kenneth, who queer notions about divorced women lead the unhappy couple into serious complications. The well-defined vein of comedy running through the play is in pleasing contrast with some others of Miss Ellsler's repertoire. The company is the usual good one of this organization and includes the familiar names of Frank Weston, Robert Drouet and W. C. Coudock.

Current Literature.

The April number of Current Literature is a brilliant one with a freshness, piquancy and interest in every page that is irresistible. It contains so much matter on so wide a field as to make it difficult to condense the list of its contents into a single paragraph. The subject of ballooning is the Topic of the month in The Glimpses of the Future. The readings are from Bill Nye's New History; Beatrice Harraden's Ships that Pass in the Night; a page of witty paragraphs from John Oliver Hobbes' new book A Bundle of Life; a tragic Night Fight with Flails on the English fens; a collection of thoughts on great questions by Mezzomadar, the Hindu thinker,—and so the list runs on. The new Question Department promises to be most interesting.

Among the sixty or more authors represented in the April number of Current Literature are Andrew Lang, S. Baring-Gould, John Oliver Hobbes, Bill Nye, Beatrice Harraden, Francis Thompson, Mrs. John Sherwood, Hamilton W. Mabie, Clark Russell, M. Quad, Philip S. Moxom, Elizabeth Lynn Linton, Count Tolstoi, P. C. Mezzomadar, E. F. Benson, Samuel Minton Peck, F. L. Stanton, William Wetmore Story, Graham Tomson, Ben King, Austin Dobson, Paul H. Hayne and others equally famous in Norse, Russian, English, Spanish, French, German, Hindu and American literature.

The Eggleston Murder.

M. J. Carney was in from Antelope Valley yesterday, and says that after having investigated the Eggleston murder case for two weeks, G. H. Strickland and wife have been arrested and charged with the crime by the authorities.

The verdict of the Coroner's Jury was to the effect that Mrs. Eggleston came to her death from wounds inflicted by some instrument in the hands of Mrs. Strickland. Her husband was held as an accessory. The murderess seem to have had no motive for the crime, but committed the deed in the heat of passion.

The testimony before the Coroner's jury was taken by Mr. Carney, and he is in a position to know the facts in the case.

"A Railroad Ticket."

The new successful farce-comedy surprise, "A Railroad Ticket," overflowing with catchy songs, pretty girls and amusing incidents will be the attraction at the Opera House on Friday Evening March 30. The plot of the piece is based on the attempt of Mrs. J. H. F. Clasher to obtain a divorce from her husband, who is endeavoring to boom a town site by offering a shower of artificial rain whenever desired, from his rain machine, instead of taking care of his family. Arthur Moulton plays the part of a cut-rate ticket scalper and is said to be hilariously amusing. He is ably assisted by Anna Caldwell, James T. Kelly and numerous other clever entertainers.

Seats on sale at Steinmetz's Drug Store.

The Buzz of the Typesetter.

The press composing room has been equipped with typesetting machines. The operation of these machines will be given to the old compositors of the paper, who will soon be adepts therein. The machines are new, and the workmen will not for a time be familiar with their working, and it is possible a great many mistakes, some of them do M. riddycyous, will creep into the paper, to the annoyance of our readers, but this trouble will only be temporary, and we hope our comendMed setters will be able to set all the wrrriggltt pppprrrry squn. MeanWhile we beg the kkind indulggence of our ffffrindz.—Cleveland Press.

COAST NEWS.

Colonel E. A. Ester, largely engaged in mining interests at Salt Lake, died in that city Sunday.

The shipment of fish from Gray's Harbor, Wash., is becoming an important industry. Last week eighteen tons were shipped East—principally to Boston.

Eggs are selling for 40 cents per dozen in Ashland, Or., and a 52-dozen lot was purchased last week by one of the grocery firms of the Granite City for 7 1/2 cents.

Most of the Mare Island shops are expecting a heavy reduction in force by April 1st. It is reported that there is a big job on the Boston, but there is no money to carry on the work.

Charles H. Cameron, a middle-aged bachelor, mysteriously disappeared from Portland, Or., in 1887. It was supposed that he had been murdered, but he now turns up at San Diego as a fish peddler.

At Banning, Riverside county, a man convicted of misdemeanor was sent to the county jail for two years. The Superior Court, on a writ of habeas corpus, decided the sentence illegal and discharged the prisoner.

A man named Glascock attempted to blackmail the Wests, owners of El Pino vineyard, near Stockton, by threatening to give false information about the distillery. The Wests immediately asked for an investigation by the revenue officials. The result was proof of Glascock's duplicity and his confession followed.

Too Filthy.

Washington, March 27.—Judge Bradley, in the Pollard-Breckinridge case this morning, gave his decision ruling out certain depositions and saying the others ought to have been ruled out because they were too filthy. He appealed to the press to omit the objectionable passages.

Boston, March 27.—The Woman's Rescue League has adopted resolutions denunciating of Breckinridge's conduct toward Miss Pollard and calling on the people of Kentucky to retire him to private life.
